We make Connecticut Happen

2022 poses difficult challenges for state workers, but if we fight for a moral budget we can move our state in a more racially and economically equitable direction.

Fight for a Moral Budget and Strong Contracts!

TUESDAY, APRIL 27TH
2:30-4:30PM

We are moving towards the end of a legislative session that will help determine if:

- the direction of the state works for state workers and all working families
- our economy will continue to grow only for a tiny percentage of the wealthiest residents
- we move forward on fighting racial and economic injustice, or continue to be the state with the highest levels of wealth and income inequality by race and class
- our state becomes a model employer for racial justice in the workplace
- we continue to shrink the state workforce, and reduce critical services needed by Connecticut's communities, black, brown and white
- we get fair collective bargaining agreements, pandemic pay, and a COVID workers compensation presumption for Connecticut's frontlines

HOSTED BY: SEBAC and its 2022 Organizing and Racial
Justice Committees.
